CAMPBELL UNIVERSITY
SCHOOL OF LAW

1982
PLACEMENT BULLETIN
Message from the Dean

It was less than six years ago that I left the active practice of law to help establish a new law school at Campbell University—a school designed to be an educational and economic model for the small law school and a laboratory for innovation in legal education.

Several facts attest to the value of our having remained true to that concept since admission of Campbell's charter class in August of 1976. Most visible have been the rapidity with which Campbell negotiated the American Bar Association accreditation process, being one of the few schools in recent years to receive full ABA approval after only the minimum required two years as a provisionally approved school, and the outstanding success of graduates of Campbell's first three classes on bar admission examinations in Connecticut, Maryland, Missouri, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, and Florida.

But I believe that your perusal of this Bulletin will give you a better idea than any statistics of why those who have employed and associated with Campbell's first graduates have categorized their performances as superior. Each of the students pictured herein gained admission to Campbell only after a rigorous screening process which included a faculty interview. The 93 members of the senior class include the national chairman of the ABA's 42,000 member Law Student Division; students who have been instrumental in the establishment of the innovative practice-oriented Campbell Law Observer and in the improvement of the more traditional Campbell Law Review, who have brought honor to the school in regional and national competitions, and all of whom are successfully completing the demanding educational program outlined on page 50, and doing so in a competitive environment from which grade inflation has been absent. That program and approach are the products of a truly outstanding faculty, profiled on pages 46-49. It has been said that for a school with the twin goals of teaching well the traditional law school skills of analysis, synthesis and expression and of fulfilling the training function of the urban law firm, no better faculty could be found. I believe you will concur in that judgment.

These students, three-fourths of whom will have worked in law firms prior to graduation, have played an integral part in the establishment of the School of Law and its positive spirit. We are confident their contributions will continue, and we invite your inquiries concerning their placement. Please contact Assistant Dean Currin, me or other members of our faculty concerning your needs.

Sincerely yours,

F. Leary Davis
Dean
Campbell University
School of Law
The Student Bar Association of Campbell University School of Law proudly presents the 1982 Placement Bulletin. It is with great pride that we present the members of the Classes of 1982, 1983 and 1984. I wish to thank Assistant Dean Margaret Currin and Lou Nora Jackson without whose diligence and cooperation this Bulletin would not have been possible.

Student Editor
School of Law Placement Office

On behalf of Campbell University School of Law and its Placement Office, we would like to extend to you an invitation to visit the School to interview those of our students whose interests and qualifications suit your staffing needs.

This edition of the Placement Bulletin will introduce you to members of the Classes of 1982, 1983, and 1984. We commend these students to you for your consideration.

On page 51 you will find a detachable, postage-paid form which you may use to reserve interview time or request further information from our Placement Office. We will be happy to work with you to collect resumes, arrange interview schedules, reserve conference rooms, and make all other necessary accommodations.

Employers who do not wish to send a representative to the School of Law are invited to send job descriptions which will be processed by the Placement Office. Students will be instructed to contact the employer in the manner designated.

We sincerely hope that it will be possible for you to visit the School, and we look forward to hearing from you.

Thank you for your interest.
