Dean Davis Receives Iredell Award
Phi Alpha Delta Law Fraternity Taps Founding Dean for Annual Honor

F. Leary Davis, Professor and Founding Dean of the Norman Adrian Wiggins School of Law, was awarded Phi Alpha Delta's 1993 James Iredell Award for outstanding leadership in the legal profession. Over two hundred guests attended an award banquet held at the North Raleigh Hilton on October 20, including the Davis family, law students, law faculty and staff, and leaders in the legal profession.

The James Iredell Award is presented annually to an individual who has made significant contributions to the legal profession. The award was inspired by the life and writings of James Iredell, who fought for North Carolina's ratification of the Constitution and was appointed to the United States Supreme Court. Heather Hayes, Chief Justice of Phi Alpha Delta, set the tone for the evening by reading an excerpt from Robert Frost's poem, "The Road Less Traveled."

Court of Appeals Judge Sidney S. Eagles, Jr., the 1991 recipient of the Iredell Award and a close friend of Dean Davis, made the award presentation. Judge Eagles noted that Dean Davis has many skills and talents, but that "...his greatest are his thorough preparation, careful follow-through, and intuitive selection of talented women and men to augment and aid his work." Eagles added: "In his professional life, he has had large visions and the courage to attempt their realization. Not afraid of hard work, Leary Davis inspires the very best in all around him. Leary's successes are numerous, but he has never been content to rest on his laurels."

Dean Davis embarked on his lifetime friendship with Judge Eagles at Wake Forest University law school. Also while at Wake Forest, Dean Davis was impressed by a hard working law professor, Dr. Norman A. Wiggins.

In 1976, Dean Davis made a surprising career change when he left a very successful law practice to serve as founding dean of a new law school at Campbell University. His former law professor, Dr. Wiggins, recognized the leadership potential in the young lawyer and community leader and wisely convinced him to accept the founding dean position.

After Dean Davis accepted the award, he introduced his children and other close family members and friends. He recalled that his parents, Major General Ferd Davis and the late Selma Davis, had encouraged their children to try new things. Referring to Dr. Wiggins' challenge to him to become the founding dean of Campbell's law school, Davis said: "My parents

(See Dean Davis, page 3)
Dr. Norman Adrian Wiggins, President of Campbell University, was the featured speaker at the law school Professionalism Lecture Series (PLS) on Tuesday, February 15. The purpose of the PLS is to bring leaders in the legal profession to the law school to share their thoughts on what it means to be a "lawyer" in the complete sense of that word. In selecting such a leader to speak at PLS, I needed travel no further than this University's administrative offices.

As a university president, law professor, former general counsel for Wake Forest University, author of a two-volume legal treatise, co-founder and past president of the National Association of College and University Attorneys, founder of the only undergraduate trust school in the nation, and founder of Campbell's school of law, Dr. Wiggins brought with him a rich and varied background as lawyer, counsellor and leader.

Dr. Wiggins delivered an inspirational and motivational message to the law student audience concerning what it means to cross the threshold into the legal profession. He emphasized that the primary motive of the lawyer must be service to others and not profit. He held up the wonderful example of Atticus Finch in the novel that should be required reading for all law students: To Kill A Mockingbird. Dr. Wiggins pointed out that Atticus had a car, but it did not have to be the fanciest car in town. Likewise, he had a home, but it was not the biggest home in the community. Atticus fulfilled his obligation as a member of a learned profession by taking on the unpopular cause of defending a poor black man accused of a crime within the confines of a bigoted community and justice system. As the quote at the beginning of this article reveals, Atticus' reward was respect, and even this respect did not come from the so-called upstanding members of the community. Dr. Wiggins managed to motivate the law students because he was able to crisply emphasize all of the fineness of a properly-lived life as an upright lawyer.

Dr. Wiggins implored the students to adopt a servanthood philosophy of the practice of law. Lawyers, he emphasized, are bound by stricter morals than those of the marketplace. He went on to recall the many community and church leaders from his home town of Burlington. As a boy, he aspired to become a lawyer because the finest role models in his young life were judges and attorneys.

He also highlighted additional positive traits that should be exhibited by members of the legal profession: empathy for clients, complete confidentiality, hard work, promptness and tact. The content of the president's message was complemented by the passion with which he spoke.

As I asked in the Fall, 1993 issue of The Campbell Lawyer in my article, "Heroes Aren't Hard to Find - The Idea Behind Campbell's Professionalism Lecture Series":

"The big picture is inextricably intertwined with the concept of professionalism. What does it mean in positive terms to be a member of a learned profession like the legal profession? Above and beyond the necessary educational expeditions into the rules all law students need to be aware of in the ethics course, what can be done to cause students to climb to a high plateau and view all there is to see in the panorama we call the legal profession?"

Dr. Wiggins' talk provided more brushstrokes for this panorama. It is a good thing when the president of a major university takes the time to share his concerns with students. Legal education at Campbell, with its emphasis on professionalism and unselfish service to others, is like a dimly-lit passegeway from the bright lights of undergraduate school. It takes several semesters for the students' eyes to adjust.

Thank you, Dr. Wiggins.

Patrick K. Hetrick, Dean
Adjunct Professor Seeks Judgeship

John M. Tyson, Charter Class graduate and Adjunct Professor of Law at Campbell, is tossing his hat into the ring for a North Carolina Court of Appeals judgeship. In John’s distinguished law school career, he served as an editor for the law review, graduated with honors and was elected to Phi Kappa Phi.

John entered private practice last year after serving 13 years as Counsel for two retail companies. An adjunct professor at Campbell since 1987, John has served on the Board of Visitors of the Law School since 1992. He is a member of the North Carolina and Virginia bars and serves as a Deputy Staff Judge Advocate for the North Carolina State Militia. John earned his Masters in Business Administration from Duke University in 1988, and was honored with a Distinguished Alumnus Award from Campbell University in 1991.

John currently teaches Real Property Planning at Campbell. He and his wife Kirby live in Fayetteville with their four children: Jason, Caroline, John Havens, and Henry.

Professor directs NITA Program

Campbell Law Professor Jean Cary directed “Taking and Defending Depositions,” a program sponsored March 9-11 by The National Institute for Trial Advocacy (NITA) in cooperation with the UNC School of Law. NITA’s “Learning by Doing” approach has been a proven success in developing deposition skills for attorneys from across the country with diverse backgrounds in the deposition process.

Dean Davis (continued from front cover)

told me that if I did not take that opportunity, I would wonder about it for the rest of my life.”

Dean Patrick K. Hetrick took the occasion to announce that the law faculty has requested to name the administrative office suite of the new Wiggins Hall in honor of Dean Davis, and concluded, “We are fortunate that Leary Davis did take ‘the road less traveled’. His leadership style, his vision, his ability to articulate so well the unique mission of Campbell’s law school, and his dedication to excellence and ethics in leadership started the new law school off on the right track.”

Guatemala?

Picture this: a six week summer excursion to a foreign land with some legal course work thrown in to boot. Sounds like the traditional summer abroad program in England, Italy, or some other Old World country. However, for twelve first and second year students, including this writer, the summer abroad program may very well change our lives.

Campbell Law School will soon begin its third Guatemala summer program. If this year’s program is anything like the first two programs, then all of us are in for a once in a lifetime experience. Professors Lynn Buzzard and Alan Button head up this year’s program, which will include their wives and the twelve students. Our adventure begins May 18th and brings us home July 3rd.

The Guatemala program is both a summer school program, offering six hours of course credit, and a mission project in a desperate country. The course work will include classes in Immigration/Refugee Law, International Human Rights, and Third World Social-Legal Problems. Furthermore, we will make contacts within the Guatemalan government and private, social, legal, religious and cultural agencies and institutions. The missionary aspect of the program will involve a project in a remote Indian village, as well as a smaller urban project.

Our itinerary promises to keep us busy. In Guatemala City, the capital, we will conduct the coursework and the urban project, as well as most of the governmental contacts. The small, remote village of Chichalté is the setting of the bigger construction project to help out the villagers in this Indian area. A trip to Guatemala would be incomplete without a visit to Atitlán. The lake of the same name is said to be the most beautiful in the world. We will investigate the local shopping at Chichicastinango, an Indian village marketplace, and explore the ancient Mayan civilization amid the jungle at the ruins in Tikal.

Certainly this program is like none other. We will encounter scenes and situations many of us could never have imagined. We will spend many days and nights without everyday necessities such as shelter, electricity, and even running water at times. However, this does not discourage those of us who have committed to go. Many of our classmates, family, and friends have this response to our endeavor, “Guatemala?” Our response is simple enough: “Yes, Guatemala!”

Contributed by:
Mac Williamson, Second-year law student

Editor’s note: While participating in the Guatemala Summer Program several years ago, Class of 1991 graduate Benjamin Bailey Lipfert, III met Virginia Alfaro Sagastume of Guatemala City, Guatemala. They were married last September.
State Bar Certifies Campbell Lawyers as Specialists

The North Carolina State Bar in November certified fifty attorneys from across the state as specialists, nine of which were graduates of the Norman Adrian Wiggins School of Law. Certified in residential real property transactions: John H. Rose of Asheville ('88). Certified in family law: Debra H. Gaskins of Washington ('80); Robert L. Inge of Salisbury ('87); Sidney P. Jessup of Kill Devil Hills ('86); and James W. Lea, III of Wilmington ('80). Certified in business bankruptcy law: Ashley H. Story of Raleigh ('82). Certified in federal and state criminal law: Stanley F. Hammer of High Point ('84). Certified in state criminal law: Terry W. Alford of Spring Hope ('80); and Mark A. Ward of Greenville ('87).

"Reunion Day" for Class of 1983

Members of the Class of 1983 gathered August 28th for an enjoyable day of reminiscing. Those making the special trip to Buies Creek enjoyed private tours of the new Wiggins Hall and the totally renovated Kivett Hall (whose memory had not faded, despite the passage of a decade). Class members met for an afternoon reception at the law offices of Poyner and Spruill, where classmate Mary Beth Forsyth Johnston is a partner. Former SBA President Robin Perkins Pendergraft presided over the evening events at the Raleigh Marriott, and provided nostalgic recollections along with Martha Lowrance and Larry Mazer. Attendees also posed for a 1993 version of the "Class Picture" (copies available through the Alumni Office).

Campbell University to Host N.C. Agribusiness Law Conference

The Norman Adrian Wiggins School of Law at Campbell University will host the 1994 North Carolina Agribusiness Law Conference on Thursday, May 12th. Conference attendees will explore emerging regulatory issues in the agribusiness industry, including:
- new developments from USDA, OSHA, and EPA
- state and federal regulations affecting agribusiness
- new liabilities facing commercial farms, chemical manufacturers, warehouses, livestock producers, and other agricultural operations

Attorneys attending the conference will receive 5.5 hours of CLE credit, and their $75 registration fee includes lunch and a conference manuscript. For additional conference details, contact Beverly A. Rogers at P.O. Drawer 19764, Raleigh, NC 27619-9764.

Campbell University Law Students Sweep Regional Trial Competition

Campbell University swept the 1994 Mid-Atlantic Region Trial Advocacy Competition held March 4-6 in Raleigh. Fourteen teams from eight different schools participated in the regional competition, where the top two teams were selected for the national Trial Advocacy Competition on April 7-10 in Miami, Florida. The two teams sponsored by Campbell garnered both of those invitations to the national competition.

One of Campbell's teams consisted of Tony Baker, Matt Sullivan, Leslie Tucker, and Toni Wright. Melissa Draffin, Greg Home, Shelli Stoker, and Lee Zuravel comprised the other team. Professor Woody Woodruff coached the two teams, with assistance from Professors Tom Anderson, Don Beci and Bob Jenkins. Sponsored by the North Carolina Academy of Trial Lawyers and the Association of Trial Lawyers of America, the competition put the law students in charge of mock personal injury litigation. The panel of judges and lawyers selected winners on the basis of such advocacy skills as opening statements, direct and cross-examination of witnesses, and closing arguments. That Campbell captured both of the top spots speaks highly of the skill and effort of the Campbell trial team members as well as the quality of the trial advocacy program at Campbell.

Other North Carolina schools participating in the competition included the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill and North Carolina Central University. Out-of-state competitors included Georgetown, George Washington University, Catholic University of America, Widener University and the University of Tennessee.

Contributed by:
Don Beci and Woody Woodruff

Postcards from North Carolina

Dean Pat Hetrick has initiated monthly forays to meet with Campbell Law Alumni practicing in North Carolina. The Dean's office sends advance notices to area alumni, inviting them to meet with Dean Hetrick for a "dutch treat" meal. So far, the Dean's trips have taken him to Elizabeth City, Nags Head, Weldon, Greenville, Ahoskie, and Washington, N.C. His next alumni journey will take him to Sylva, Asheville and Hickory on May 24th and 25th. Within the next year, Dean Hetrick hopes to visit Campbell alumni in every North Carolina Judicial District.

Be on the lookout for your invitation to meet with Dean Hetrick in your area....
Class Actions

Class of 1979

District Court Judge Danny E. Davis of Waynesville, N.C. has been named to the Substance Abuse and the Courts State Task Force, an inter-agency state effort formed by Chief Justice James Exum, Jr. to address special problems posed by criminals who abuse drugs.

Our sympathy to Jane Powell Gray in the recent death of her father.

Frank Parrish, Senior Assistant U.S. District Attorney, was recently honored as the best and most compassionate murder trial prosecutor in the 4th and 6th Judicial Districts, which include the Carolinas, Virginia, Maryland and several other states east of the Mississippi River.

Henry Willis married Lisa Melcher on December 10. Henry is an attorney in Dunn and his new bride is a case worker for Harnett County.

Class of 1980

William McIver (Mac) Cameron of Jacksonville garnered one of three nominations to the Governor for appointment as District Court Judge in the Fourth Judicial District.

Donald R. Teeter has been named a partner with Poyner & Spruill, L.L.P., and will concentrate on construction and business litigation in the firm’s Raleigh office.

Class of 1981

Reginald B. Kelly and his partner I. Thomas West won an outdoor landscaping award sponsored by Lillington’s Four Season’s Garden Club as part of its effort to spruce up Lillington’s downtown historic district.

N.C. Senator Elaine Marshall has been named to the North Carolina Courts Commission.

Meg Scott Phipps is now associated with the Mebane firm of Davis and Humbert. Much like her father and grandfather, both North Carolina governors, Meg stays active in local Democratic party leadership and in Alamance County community service groups.

Class of 1982

Roger L. Crowe, Jr., formerly a solo practitioner in Beaufort, N.C., has become a principal in the firm of Crowe and Dodge, P.A. The office address is 402 Turner Street, P.O. Drawer 1190, Beaufort, NC 28516; (919) 728-4266.

G. Wayne Hardee, a partner with his brother Charles (‘81) at Hardee & Hardee in Greenville, N.C., has won the Greenville Jaycee’s Distinguished Service Award.

Charles Rawls is now working for the U.S. Department of Agriculture. His new address is Office of the Deputy Secretary, 14th at Independence S.W., Washington, D.C. 20250; (202) 720-6158.

Constantine Charles Zogzas (Dino) has left First Citizens Bank to be the Branch Manager in Western North Carolina for Fidelity National Title Insurance Company. His office address is 220 South Main Street, Suite 3, Hendersonville, NC 28792; (704) 696-0908.

Class of 1983

Sarah Patterson Brison was married to Don Meldrum at Grace Covenant Presbyterian Church in Asheville, N.C. on January 22.

Mark T. Calloway was sworn in as United States Attorney for the Western District of North Carolina on February 25.

James B. Morgan, Jr., of Wilmington was honored by the New Hanover County Bar and Legal Services of the Lower Cape Fear for his pro bono work.

Rebecca L. Stevens has opened a new office in Cary. Her office address is 2000 Regency Parkway, Suite 360, Cary, NC 27511; (919) 460-9991; Fax (919) 460-9992.

Class of 1984

WATCH FOR DETAILS ON THE CLASS OF 1984 TENTH-YEAR REUNION THIS SUMMER!

Lee Castle, a private practitioner in Durham for 10 years, has filed for election as District Court Judge, becoming the first person in Durham County this year to challenge an incumbent judge.

B. Davis Horne, Jr., has become Of Counsel to the Raleigh firm of Smith, Anderson, Blount, Dorsett, Mitchell & Jernigan, L.L.P., concentrating in governmental affairs and administrative law. His office address is P.O. Box 2611, 2500 First Union Capital Center, Raleigh, NC 27601; (919) 821-6680.

Margaret Robison Kantlehner and husband Robert Charles became the proud parents of Paul Cavitt on December 31, 1993.

Brian E. and Kimberly N. Upchurch are the proud parents of Hayden Olivia Upchurch, born January 26th and weighing in at 8 lbs., 10 oz.

Class of 1985

Mike Godley and his partners formed the general practice firm of Thomas, Godley and Childers in Mooresville.

B. Geoffrey Hulse has been named a partner at Barnes, Braswell, Haltcoock, P.A. The office address is P.O. Drawer 7, Goldsboro, NC 27533-0007; (919) 735-6420.

(continued next page)
Donald W. Marcari, a partner in the Virginia Beach firm of Kershner, Hawkins and Marcari, P.C., was on the defense team that successfully defended three Navy officers charged in the "Tailhook Scandal."

Andrew A. Vanore, III has become a partner at Yates, McLamb & Weyher, L.L.P. The firm's address is P.O. Box 18037, Raleigh, NC 27619-8037; (919) 783-5300.

Class of 1986

Rick Butler, formerly with Cheshire, Parker and Butler, has opened his own law office in Hillsborough. His office phone: (919) 732-1921.

Elizabeth Darden Freshwater married Richard Thorp Smith, III of Wilson on November 6. Elizabeth is a Senior Assistant District Attorney for the Seventh Judicial District of North Carolina.

Class of 1987

Captain Timothy M. Dunn, Head of the U.S. Marine Corps Criminal Law Division at the U.S. Naval Justice School in Newport, R.I., has been selected to attend the LL.M. program. The Naval Justice School trains all Marine Corps, Navy and Coast Guard Judge Advocates. Tim and wife Susan stay busy with their children: Clark, age 5, Johnathan Patrick, age 3½ and Laura Caroline, five months.

Jeff D. Rogers, formerly with Wyatt, Early, Harris & Hauser in High Point, has joined the creditor litigation section of Smith Debnam Hibbert & Pahl in Raleigh.

Class of 1988

W. Samuel Hamrick, Jr. is now the Chief Deputy Clerk of Court in the U.S. District Court for Northern West Virginia, and looks forward to helping with the design and development of a new federal courthouse and working with Judge Frederick P. Stamp, Jr. His new office address is: Chief Deputy Clerk of Court, P.O. Box 471, Wheeling, W.V. 26003; (304) 232-0011. His new home address is P. O. Box 305, Wheeling, W.V. 26003; (304) 233-6699.

Lorie Pretzel has opened a new law office at 150 Fayetteville Street Mall, P.O. Box 305, Raleigh, NC 27602; (919) 831-8737.

David Teddy, founding partner of Kennedy & Teddy in Shelby, N.C., is entering the North Carolina Senate race.

Class of 1989

Jerry A. Allen, Jr. has been named a partner with Walker, Young and Barwick, L.L.P., at P.O. Box 2047, Goldsboro, NC; (919) 734-6565.

Kimberly Gasperon-Justice has been commissioned as a First Lieutenant in the Judge Advocate General's Corps of the United States Army Reserve. Her home address is 417 Comet Drive, Hendersonville, NC 28739; (704) 692-3363.

Robert Jones is the newly-elected President of the Pitt County Young Lawyers Association, which has applied for affiliation with the N.C. Young Lawyers Association.

Phillip Howell Redmond, Jr. is engaged to marry Nellie Owen Rittenbury of Port Richey, Florida on February 12.

Beverly Teague now practices law in Hickory, N.C. Her office address is Route 13, Box 398, P.O. Box 6228, Hickory, NC 28603; (704) 495-5000.

Julie A. Turner is now a principal in the firm of Thomas, Farr & Turner, P.A. The firm's address is 104 W. Nash Street, P.O. Box 2848, Wilson, NC 27893; (919) 243-3000.

Clifton Campbell West, formerly with the firm of Rose, Ray, Wинфrey & O'Connor, is now with Ciccone and Bunce, Attorneys. The office address is 1003 Hay Street, Fayetteville, NC 28305; (910) 323-4332.

Class of 1990

Michael Rousseaux is now associated with the firm of Wishart, Norris, Henninger, & Pittman, P.A., and is practicing in the area of insurance defense litigation. The office address is Morrocrift Professional Center, 6832 Morrison Blvd., Charlotte, NC 28210; (704) 364-0010.

Class of 1991

Cary E. Close, former law clerk to N.C. Court of Appeals Judge K. Edward Greene, is now associated with Manning, Fulton & Skinner, P.A. The office address is 500 UCB Plaza, 3605 Glenwood Avenue, Raleigh, NC 27612; (919) 787-8880.

T. Michael Lassiter now practices law with his father, in the firm of T. Michael Lassiter, P.A. The office address is 115 N. Center St., P.O. Box 548, Statesville, NC 28677; (704) 873-3763.

Benjamin Bailey Lippert, III and Virginia Alfaro Sagastume of Guatemala City, Guatemala were married September 3, 1993. They met while Bailey was participating in the Guatemala Summer Program several years ago.

Charles D. Mooney has opened a new law office in Raleigh. The office address is 12 N. Boylan Avenue, Raleigh, NC 27603; (919) 829-5680.

Gloria Leonora Woods, Attorney for Legal Aid Society for Northwest North Carolina in Winston-Salem was recently sworn into the North Carolina Bar before the Honorable Loretta C. Biggs.

Sandra Alice Ray wed Sherman Lee Criner (‘93) on October 2. Dr. J. Stanley McQuade performed the ceremony at the Warsaw Baptist Church in Warsaw, N.C.

(continued next page)
Class Actions

Class of 1992

Rebecca Britton will present a session at the NCATL CLE in Greensboro on April 22. Her topic will be “Non-consequential Damages.”

Our sympathy to Michael Gay in the recent death of his father.

John Marshall Nunnally and Alicia Myra Benson were married on October 2 in Cary, N.C. John is an attorney with Stott, Hollowell, Palmer and Windham in Gastonia.

Grace Mercer was married to Greg Schott on October 2. Grace is employed by Gargill, Sassoon and Rudolph in Boston, Massachusetts.

Kenneth Sauve has opened a general law practice in Rutherfordton.

Virginia S. Schabacker continues to practice with Clark, Wharton & Berry of Greensboro. The office address is 125 S. Elm Street, P. O. Box 1349, Greensboro, NC; (910) 275-7275.

Class of 1993

Sherman Lee Criner wed Sandra Alice Ray ('91) on October 2. Dr. J. Stanely McQuade performed the ceremony at the Warsaw Baptist Church in Warsaw, N.C.

Robert Glenn Greene, Jr. married Kimberly Shannon Lucas of Coats, N.C., on October 16 at the Coats Baptist Church. Bert is now an associate at the Wilkesboro firm of attorney Larry S. Moore.

(continued next column)

Kelly Haywood, currently working for the office of McCoy, Weaver, Wiggins, Cleveland and Raper in Fayetteville, has been accepted into the Army JAG Corps. Kelly will be commissioned in July and will be working for three years as a lawyer in the Army. Kelly and husband Ed will move to Ft. Devens, Massachusetts with the 10th Special Forces Group for one year and then on to Ft. Carson, Colorado.

Robert T. King is working for the firm of Wilcox, McLeod, Buyck & Williams in Florence, S.C. Robert is very appreciative of the fine job that the entire law faculty did to prepare him to pass the N.C. bar exam, and also the S.C. bar exam.

Debra K. Price has opened a law practice at 1215 Fort Bragg Road, P.O. Box 53902, Fayetteville, NC 28305; (910) 485-4100. She will be handling elder, family, criminal and consumer law.

Amy Elizabeth Denning married Richard Darren Maready on November 20th. They live in Jacksonville, which is hometown for both.

Bernard (Rick) Richards, Jr. is now associated with the firm of Reynolds and Pendergrass, P.A., P.O. Box 26506, Raleigh, NC 27611; (919) 832-4110.

Dianne Smith became one of four new associates last fall to join the firm of Wishart, Norris, Henninger & Pittman, P.A.

Angela Denise Matney is practicing in the areas of personal injury and medical negligence with Armstrong and Armstrong in Smithfield.

John Howard Middleton, II, an associate at Cadeaux & Taglieri in Washington, D.C., passed the Maryland bar in November.

Placement Report:

97 Bulbs About to Bloom — Pick a Campbell Lawyer Today

It's spring and Campbell law school is ready to burst forth in full flower. The 97 "bulbs" that were planted in Buies Creek three years ago (a.k.a. Campbell's third-year class) will graduate soon and reveal their beautiful colors in the form of knowledge of North Carolina law, their professional, yet very practical, legal skills and extensive courtroom training. If experience bears forth, most of them will be licensed to practice law in North Carolina by late August and gainfully employed by you...or by the law firm down the street, if you delay!

The third-year law students arrived at Campbell with rich and diverse academic and professional backgrounds. And every Campbell law alumnus is familiar with the type of legal education and training these students have received in their three years under a tremendous faculty who actually practiced law before becoming law professors.

These flowers we know as the Class of 1994 have strong North Carolina roots and are available now for the picking! You and all other Campbell law alumni are encouraged to contact your Placement Office today for a personal interview or a copy of student resumes. Don't continue to put off recruitment of an associate — almost every member of the Class of 1993 was employed in less than a year. Last year, a number of our alumni reached back and picked a Campbell graduate. It would be to your advantage to staff your law office with Campbell's best and brightest before all are picked by someone else.

Help us plant our bulbs in familiar soil. Thanks for your assistance.

James R. Bailey, Jr.
Assistant Dean for Placement
1-800-334-4111, extension 1786
CALENDAR CALL

Hoodying  Sunday, May 8, 1994
Guest Speaker:  Dr. Robert McAfee, President-elect
American Medical Association

Graduation  Monday, May 9, 1994

North Carolina Agribusiness Law Conference at the Norman Adrian
Wiggins School of Law, Campbell University, on Thursday, May 12, 1994.

YLD/N.C. Bar Foundation Endowment Bicycle Ride June 21st, from Raleigh to Myrtle Beach, S.C. through Buies Creek. For details contact
Jackie Fountain at the N.C. Bar Association, 1-800-662-7407.

Law School Alumni Breakfast, NCATL Convention, Myrtle Beach, S.C. on Wednesday, June 22, 1994.

Law School Luncheon, N.C. Bar Association, Myrtle Beach, S.C. on Friday, June 24, 1994.

Class of 1984 Reunion at the Crabtree Marriott in Raleigh, N.C., on Saturday, September 10, 1994.

Campbell University
Norman Adrian Wiggins School of Law
Post Office Box 158
Buies Creek, NC 27506